

Digital Transformation of FM Knowledge Award

Digitally validate and curate project-centric data and documents for digital twin and operations views

HOUSTON, TX, June 5, 2023 – Agile Handover, LLC, the leading information technology company specializing in digital transformation solutions, recently presented their 1st Annual Digital Transformation of FM Knowledge Award to Mark Philip for Innovations at the Howard Hughes Medical Institute’s Janelia Research Campus.

Agile Handover is pleased to announce that Director of Facilities Mark Philip has been awarded the first annual Digital Transformation of FM Knowledge award for his outstanding contributions to the field of facility management. Mark has been recognized for his leadership in defining best practices to enable FM personnel to access the knowledge they need quickly and efficiently for optimal facility operations.

At Janelia Research Campus, Mark has implemented state-of-the-art building information modeling (BIM), computerized maintenance management (CMMS), building automation, and document management systems. These systems are kept up to date through a well-defined building information management process that ensures seamless curation of information to aid in optimal performance.

Mark has also demonstrated an innovative approach by incorporating Agile Handover technology into the FM knowledge management process. In addition to building information management optimization, Mark has utilized Agile Handover technology applications to develop impact analyses of issues with mechanical and electrical equipment, rapid updating of and quick access to digital electrical panelboard schedules, and detailed room data sheets.

Agile Handover is proud to recognize Mark Philip's achievements and innovations, which have set new standards for excellence in facility management. Mark's dedication to improving FM knowledge management has helped to enhance the performance and efficiency of HHMI's facilities, and his work serves as a model for the entire industry.

About Agile Handover

Agile Handover is the leading global information technology company specializing in Digital Handover Management. We are technologists, solution consultants, and information processing Subject Matter Experts that implement and deploy our Digital Transformation solution to support Asset Digitization strategies. Our patented Digital Handover Management™ solution provides a system and methodology for automating information handover from design, construction, commissioning, etc. to Digital Twins and operations and maintenance systems.
